Where's Johnny?

So you made the trip from near or far, landing smack in the middle of North Central Massachusetts. You're in Johnny Appleseed Country.

But where's Johnny?

Of course, John Chapman — who gained legendary status as a sower of seeds and planter of apple orchards — has faded into history. Born in Leominster in 1774, Johnny spent his youth here before heading west as the fledgling nation expanded. But his hometown still honors him in many ways. Drive around the city, and you'll see a host of parks, schools and streets bearing Johnny's name.

Want to meet this legend, up close and personal? A youthful version of Johnny has been welcoming travelers to the Johnny Appleseed Visitor Center on Route 2 for years. Stop by for a selfie!

Want to learn more about Johnny?

The Visitor Center on Route 2 Westbound in Lancaster has a number of books about his life and times, geared to all ages! §

Visitor Center Events

You can learn about Johnny and the history of the region at the Visitor Center — and more! Stop by the center on any weekend in September or October, and you might find a local artist, entertainer, or even a farmer! Pet a bunny, sample Polar products, enjoy a free cup of coffee... and more!

How Do You Pick the Perfect Apple?

So many apples... so hard to choose a favorite. Shiny red Galas. Pale green Granny Smiths. Yellow Delicious.

Look past the color, to your planned use: Apples for pies. Apples for eating. Apples for sauce. Apples to store away into the winter months.

Everyone seems to know an apple they consider the “best.” With so many choices, autumn is a special time in Johnny Appleseed’s back yard. Fruit hangs heavy on the trees, and families head into the orchards to enjoy the bounty of the season. Consider this: The Red Apple Farm in Phillipston offers 42 different varieties of the fruit that earned Johnny Appleseed his nickname! And a single tree in their orchard sports 100 different varieties of apples on its grafted branches.

the pick-your-own season is past.

The hardest part might be deciding just what to take home! Every orchard or farmstand has its own specialties — and you’ll often find home-baked pies, fresh-pressed cider and other apple delights at these local markets, too.

Recognizing the desire for family outings, many growers, like Lanni Orchards in Lunenburg, turn apple season into festival season as well — with music, hayrides, pie-baking contests and more.

So fill your basket, tour the fields, savor the flavors, and enjoy your adventure in Johnny Appleseed’s backyard. §

Cream of the Crop

Sholan Farms, a 169-acre orchard operated by a volunteer organization, has more than three dozen varieties ripening from mid-August till late October. But the Friends of Sholan Farms celebrate the “Cream of the Crop” — their Macouns — in late September. It’s a great weekend to visit and see all that Sholan has to offer.

But you don’t have to wait for a special event to visit a “you-pick” spot like Hollis Hills Farm in Fitchburg, Meadowbrook Orchards in Sterling, or Carlson Orchards in Harvard. Apple season begins in July and runs right through October, so there’s always something great to pick. Many orchards and farmstands also have climate-controlled storage, so you can keep coming back for more, even after

Apple-icious Ideas

So you've visited local orchards and filled baskets or bags of luscious-looking (and tasting) fruits. Now comes the question: What are you going to do with them all?

Of course, the family will be biting right into some — maybe before you even get home. Some will sit in a bowl on the table, providing tasteful autumn décor for your kitchen, a reminder of your country tour.

And then ... what? We have the answer for you! Here are a pair of recipes from local chefs to help you turn those fabulous fruits into tasty tidbits to tempt your palate. Don your apron, get out your favorite mixing bowl, and enjoy! §

APPLE RAISIN NUT BREAD

A moist and delicious quick bread that you can make with fresh apples!

Ingredients:

- 4 eggs
- 1 ¼ cups vegetable oil
- 1 tablespoon vanilla
- 3 cups chopped apples
- 2/3 cup raisins
- 1/2 cup chopped walnuts
- 2 ½ cups sugar
- 3 cups flour

- 2 teaspoons cinnamon
- 1 ½ teaspoons salt
- 1 ½ teaspoons baking soda
- 1/2 teaspoon cloves
- 1/2 teaspoon baking powder

Preheat oven to 350.

Grease and flour two loaf pans.

In a large bowl, add chopped apples, sugar, eggs, oil, vanilla, raisins, and nuts. Stir well.

In a separate bowl, mix dry ingredients together well.

Add dry ingredients slowly to wet ingredients. Mix them just until there are no dry ingredients visible. Don't overmix.

Pour batter into two greased loaf pans. Bake until a toothpick inserted in center comes out clean.

Cool in pan for about 10 minutes, remove from pan to finish cooling on a rack.

Enjoy!

THE NOSE KNOWS

Ah, there's nothing quite like the crisp air of fall in New England — cool, clean, with just a hint of ... garlic?

Yes, folks, it's time to follow your nose to Forster's Farm on Chestnut Hill Road in Orange, where garlic reigns over a weekend of food, fun, art and environmental awareness. The North Quabbin Garlic & Arts Festival, celebrating a quarter century of aromatic enjoyment this year, is a staple of autumn in North Central Massachusetts.

Popularly known as the "Festival that Stinks," Garlic & Arts is a fabulous family-friendly destination held just as fall foliage sets area hillsides ablaze in color. Visitors to the historic farm can wander among 100 exhibitors showcasing captivating creativity, farm-fresh products, and healing arts.

Three stages provide a perfect backdrop, with music, performance, and spoken word throughout the weekend. You can take a world tour of glorious garlic cuisine and chef demonstrations. Want more? There are over 50 workshops and talks on topics ranging from Foraging for Mushrooms to Getting Pumped about Heat Pumps, and Improving Habitats for Honeybees and Pollinators. How about spending time in the free kids' art-making tent, or trying your hand at garlic games — including the famous (or infamous) garlic-eating contest?

Despite its name, this festival isn't just about fragrant food! "Orange is the new green at the festival," its organizers say, with its local living workshops and a host of electric vehicles on display. Just how "green" is this weekend event? Would you believe that despite all the food, fun, and frivolity, the festival produces only two bags of trash for 8,000 people?

After a brief hiatus due to the Covid pandemic, the festival has come back stronger (and more fragrant) than ever. "Twenty five years ago," the organizers say, "we dreamed up an idea to celebrate the beauty and bounty of our region, so often-overlooked, and ignite the cultural and agricultural economy of the North Quabbin. Today, more than ever, people of all walks of life need places to come together in celebration and gain inspiration for resilient lives and communities, and a saner world." That's just what you'll find at the Festival.

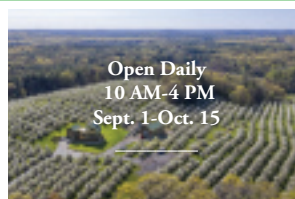

The flavorful event runs from 10 am to 5 pm on September 30 and October 1, offering ample time to enjoy a taste of the region. As a twenty-fifth anniversary special, Garlic & Arts is offering half-price general admission this year — only $5 for the weekend! Kids 12 and under are admitted free. Card to Culture: EBT, WIC, and ConnectorCare cardholders can also attend free of charge. Visit www.garlicandarts.org for the full array of vendors, performance and workshops, parking and shuttle information. (No pets, service animals only.) Follow the festival on facebook: @North Quabbin Garlic and Arts Festival and Instagram @nqgarlicandartsfestival.

Or just breathe deeply, and let your senses lead you to Forster's Farm. §

Celebrate the Season!

The lazy, hazy days of summer are winding down, and the crisp, invigorating weeks of winter lie ahead. As autumn arrives in all its brilliant glory, the agricultural past and recreational present combine to make Johnny Appleseed Country a daily delight.

As you travel through North Central Massachusetts, you can see scores of active farms and orchards, providing both food and entertainment for today's residents and visitors. You can swing by a farmstand to pick up some fresh veggies for your dinner table, or spend a day picking shiny red, green, even golden apples in a sunny hilltop orchard.

But fall is also a time for folks to gather together to celebrate this bounty — and the region provides weeks of festivals to make that possible!

Tracing Our Roots

There's no surer place to see the area's agricultural roots than at the Sterling Fair — a two and a half day, family oriented, community, agricultural fair with the emphasis on agriculture and education. The Sterling Fair features rides, horse pulls, oxen pulls, tractor pulls, helicopter rides, antique engine and machinery show, livestock shows, food, entertainment and more!

The fair begins on Friday, September 8, with a fun-packed midway — fun, food, games, thrilling rides (like the iconic Ferris wheel), all designed to get you in a festive mood. But don't let the bright lights, chills, and thrills fool you. This is a weekend packed with everything from a kids' frog jumping contest and women's skillet-tossing contest to an antique tractor and engine show! Horse and oxen pulls. Baked goods and quilting contests. Vegetable and gourd decorating shows. And music, music, music! Learn more about this weekend-long event at sterlingfair.org.

Tons of Pumpkins

If you love pumpkins — and who doesn't, at this time of year! — be sure to swing by the Ashby Pumpkin Festival on the Ashby Town Common on September 30. It's a celebration of that popular fall favorite complete with food, music, and even a tractor parade!

Of course, you can find lots of pumpkins at local farms and fairs — pumpkins to make into pies; tiny pumpkins to decorate your dinner table; orange (and white!), round, and oval pumpkins to carve into Halloween jack-o-lanterns.

But wait! You haven't seen pumpkins until you've visited the Pumpkin Weigh-In on Columbus Day weekend at the Red Apple Farm in Phillipston. These are really, really, really big pumpkins. These babies can tip the scales at over a thousand pounds!

This annual event celebrating these giant gourds, and the region's agricultural history, is planned for Sunday, October 8 this year. It's a sight you won't want to miss!

The Apple of Your Eye

Did you know that the Macoun is considered the "cream of the crop" at Sholan Farms, the last working orchard in Johnny Appleseed's home town? Run by a dedicated group of volunteers, Sholan Farms is a great spot to visit year-round — but it really shines in late summer and early fall, when apple lovers flock to the orchard and farm stand.

Of course, apple picking season is a reason to celebrate everything apple! Plan to visit this hilltop orchard overlooking the city on September 16 and 17, for Honeycrisp Weekend, and September 23 and 24 for Cream of the Crop Weekend, and be sure to come back on October 7 for the Scarecrows in the Orchard Harvest Festival!

Love mountain views? Visit Wachusett Mountain Ski Area's two-weekend long AppleFest, featuring "everything apple," including a pie-eating contest, along with music, clowns, inflatables, food trucks and more!

And speaking of Johnny Appleseed ... you won't want to miss the Appleseed Country Fair, a three-day extravaganza at the Red Apple Farm in Phillipston on Labor Day weekend! Keep your eyes peeled — you just might spot Johnny himself amid the fair-goers! The weekend is jam-packed with music, crafters, hayrides, farm animals ... and the ever-popular brew barn! Pick your own apples, or buy some at the farm store, bring the family and enjoy a day in the fresh country air!

The region's namesake also lends his moniker to a downtown Leominster bash — the Johnny Appleseed Arts & Cultural Festival, a day filled with food, music, and more right in the city's business district. Visit over 220 Vendors From School Street to Park Street and West Street, and onto Main Street to Merriam Avenue. The world famous Apple Crisp returns, as does Johnny Appleseed himself!

But Wait! There's More!

Pick a weekend, any weekend, in the fall, and you're likely to find a celebration somewhere in Johnny Appleseed Country. Here's a quick list to get your plans moving: St. Edward's Fall Fair in Westminster; ShirleyFest on the Shirley Common; River City Rhythm & Rock Fest in Fitchburg; Winchendon's Fall Festival, held downtown; the Westminster Cracker Barrel Festival; the 42nd Arts & Crafts Fair on Townsend Common; BBQFest at Wachusett Mountain Ski Area; the Alpaca Farm Fest in Lunenburg; the Garlic & Arts Festival in Orange (see story on page 8); and the Cannoli Festival in Leominster!

There's just no shortage of celebrations this fall — browse through the Calendar section of this Guide and head out for a fun- (and food-) filled day in Johnny's backyard. §

100 YEARS... AND COUNTING

If you love parades, you're in for a treat in September, as the City of Gardner celebrates a major milestone!

Settled in 1764, and designated as a town in 1785, this North Central Massachusetts community grew and blossomed — gaining fame as “The Chair City” in recognition of its manufacturing base — and in 1923 made the leap to incorporation as a city. That transformation is the subject of a year-long celebration, with special events that began in January and will run right through the end of the calendar year.

The festivities have included a flashback dance, essay contests, and a summer gathering that encompassed everything from kids' activities to food trucks and music. The Gardner Museum hosted a special exhibition through the summer, “Celebrating Gardner’s 100 Years as a City,” showcasing memorable aspects of the City’s first 100 years. Highlighted in that exhibition were long-term businesses that continue to serve the Chair City today.

The highlight of the party, though, will be on Sunday, September 17 — a two-mile long Centennial Parade through the center of the city. According to the Centennial Committee, even the parade route has meaning: It begins on Elm Street, where Gardner’s Giant Chair is located, and passes by the Gardner Museum on Pearl Street (a repository of Gardner’s history from its earliest settlement in 1764) and continues down Central Street near Monument Park — now known as the venue of popular summer concerts. The route continues through Gardner’s iconic downtown and ends on Waterford Street, where a new community center will open as the city begins its second century.

The year-long Centennial party wraps up in December with a gala ball in City Hall.

Want to know more about this centennial city? Check out its Facebook page, 100Gardner, for a day-by-day look at the community, spotlighting people, places and events like the 1925 opening of the J.J. Newberry store on Parker Street, the date in 1935 when Gardner regained bragging rights as the home to the largest chair in the world (a 16-foot tall Colonial Hitchcock chair made by the Heywood Wakefield Company for Gardner’s sesquicentennial), the Gardner High School hockey team’s capture of the state championship in 1994, and the 2015 dedication of the new Police Station on Main Street — featuring an entryway that reflects the city’s “Chair City” designation.

Step Inside

Great Wolf Lodge, Fitchburg.

Hiking trails, festivals, apple orchards, ski slopes — there are so many great outdoor spots to visit in Johnny Appleseed's backyard any time of the year!

But sometimes, you may feel you've had enough of all that sunshine and fresh air ... or maybe the weatherman has put a damper on your plans for the day. Cheer up and head out the door — to one of the great indoor hot spots the region has to offer!

Got Kids?

Whether the family needs to burn off some energy or is looking for a relaxing tube ride down a lazy "river," you've come to the right place. Consider these options for some fun for all ages:

Great Wolf Lodge in Fitchburg, where it's summertime year-round. Zip down a water slide, float on a quiet stream, climb a rock wall, challenge your skills on a ropes course. Too much activity for you? Check out the MagiQuest adventure game, settle quietly for a story hour, or pan and sift your way to finding beautiful gemstones in a treasure-seeking adventure. This magical place is located just off Route 2 in Fitchburg; you can see all it has to offer at greatwolf.com.

Launch into some fun in Leominster. The newest family attraction in the area, Launch Leominster is an indoor trampoline park — and so much more! Kids, teens and adults alike can find activities to enjoy, from a Ninja course to dodge ball, bowling, and even a virtual reality experience. But don't miss the trampolines, where you can bring your fun to new heights! Launch Leominster is located at 118 Commercial Road, at the Mall at Whitney Field. See all the options for a fun-filled day at launchtrampolinepark.com.

FunStuf Party Place in Fitchburg is stuffed with, well, fun stuff to do! The Arcade Center offers everything from classic games and pinball machines to the latest and greatest video games. There are special event days with visits from Barbie to Mario and Super Heroes. And, of course, the playground filled with inflated slides and bouncy activities! FunStuf is at 791 Water St. (Route 12) in Fitchburg. See all the fun on facebook/funstufpartyplace.

Stepping Up

Release your inner Paul Bunyan — and take aim with an axe at Game On Fitchburg! Yes, this expansive sports facility has a little bit of everything, from indoor and outdoor lessons, camps, clinics and tournaments. But for some real indoor fun, take a trip to the axe-throwing lanes. Check out the arcade and cornhole court. Take a break at the bar and grille, complete with entertainment. Oh, did we mention the axe-throwing?? Learn more about Game On Fitchburg, located at 100 Game On Way, off Westminster Street in West Fitchburg, with a stop at its Facebook page.

Need to let off a little steam? Had a tough day and want to really unwind? Let it all out at Letz Rage, where you can have a smashing good time! Not just for grown-ups, this hot spot on Fitchburg's John Fitch Highway is a great place to let loose, dump all your worries, and enjoy a barrel of laughs. Break some glassware. Smash a TV. Slam appliances that have been driving you crazy at home. Yes, here's a spot where you can destroy everything!

Letz Rage, Fitchburg.

Game On, Fitchburg.

Toss some paint at a wall (or a friend). Let it all out, and walk away feeling oh, so, satisfied! Read all about it at letzrage.com.

On a Roll

There's something so satisfying about the sound of a bowling ball hitting the sweet spot, followed by pins flying. This long-popular sport is alive and well in North Central Massachusetts. Whether you're a traditional ten-pin bowler, or a true New England candlepin aficionado, there's a lane waiting for you here! Check out Gardner Ten Pins on Route 2A in that city; or Harvard Bowling Lanes on Ayer Road in Harvard. Never tried candlepin bowling? You absolutely have to check out Putnam Street Lanes in Fitchburg, rumored to be the oldest candlepin center in the country!

Have a Seat

Yeah, sometimes you just need to take a load off your feet, lean back and relax. And we've got just the spot for you! Several spots, in fact. One of the most popular indoor activities, of course, is enjoying a movie. Big screens. Comfy seats. Tasty (if not nutritious) snacks. Escape from the world for a while in the luxury recliner seats at Gardner Cinemas on Timpany Boulevard (Route 68), Gardner; at Cinema World on the John Fitch Highway in Fitchburg; Entertainment Cinemas on Sack Boulevard in Leominster; or Athol Cinemas 8 on Reservoir Drive, Athol.

Take a World Tour

While visiting here, you've learned a lot about Johnny's Backyard — but did you know you can get a glimpse of world treasures, too? Be sure to spend some time exploring an Egyptian tomb, as well as artifacts from Africa and beyond, at the Fitchburg Art Museum, 185 Elm St., Fitchburg. Travel halfway around the world to see fascinating treasures at the Museum of Russian Icons, 203 Union St., Clinton. See the works of local artists at area galleries and the Petersham Art Center, 8 North St., Petersham. Learn about local days gone by at historical society buildings, including the Gardner Museum, 28 Pearl St., Gardner.

Whatever your mood, when it's time for a break from the Great Outdoors, there are plenty of great indoor spots to visit as you tour North Central Massachusetts! §

BOO!

Frightening or funny? Simple or elaborate? Home-made or store-bought? Whatever your costume, and however you approach the season, Halloween is a popular time for characters of all ages — and businesses, civic organizations and communities across the region are set to join in weeks of frightful fun!

Tame for Toddlers

In the waning days of October, the younger set will be welcomed along the business districts in Fitchburg, Leominster and Gardner, with treats at local shops for little ghouls and goblins. Gardner makes the daylight event festive with a Falloween Stroll, and Leominster will set its creepy scene with a Halloween parade through downtown streets on October 21.

And throughout the region, community libraries and popular family spots like Hollis Hills Farm in Fitchburg will be hosting a variety of events, from story hours to craft sessions, all with slightly spooky themes. Love animals? Dress the kids in their costumes and stop by In the Meadow Farm in Lunenburg on October 29 for an afternoon filled with games, prizes, family fun — and alpacas!

Or swing by Wachusett Mountain Ski Area on October 28 for its one-day BooFest. Enjoy a spookishly fun day, with festive contests, ghoulish treats and eccentric entertainment for the whole family!

Terrifying (or Not) Tours

While you're enjoying some quality time with the family, hop in the car and take a tour of Halloween decorations, from tacky to terrifying, throughout Leominster. "Leominster Frights" runs a full two weeks, from October 16 to 31, with dozens of homes participating. Maps of the scary spots will be available online; check Leominster's Facebook page for details.

Hubbardston residents, too, will be putting their best monster feet forward with fun and frightful displays throughout the town for October evening touring. Visit Hubbardston250 on Facebook.

Or get out of the car, and into a more rustic vehicle, for a Haunted Hayride in Athol! In mid-October, the Athol Lions Club leads its long-popular event. Travel around Silver Lake Park, being treated to scary skits along the way! For the younger set, there are non-scary rides at dusk — and then the frightful fun begins for those with the nerve to take the tour!

Night Time is Fright Time

A highlight of any Leominster visit will be a tour of Tolman Street after dark. The kids will love the lighted, glowing, bobbing display of everything from jack o'lanterns to scarecrows and witches — along with Winnie the Pooh (and Tigger, too!). Get out of the car and stroll through the dozens of freaky and funny inflatables daily through the entire month. There will also be a pumpkin patch where children can pick a pumpkin to bring home and carve. See ChristmasonTolman on Facebook for details about hours and any weather cautions.

Oooooohhhh...You can almost feel ghostly figures slip past you as you tour Templeton's historic Common and centuries-old graveyard on October 27 and 28. Members of the Narragansett Historical Society will bring the past to life as they lead these evening tours, turning the spotlight — or, more appropriately, candlelight — on the lives of the town's early settlers.

On Halloween night, the Templeton Common turns into a more modern-day frightfest, when the local Lions Club opens the Haunted Gazebo, handing out tricks and treats.

Afraid to face the unknown alone? Gather some friends and head to Winchendon on October 14 for Haunted Toy Town's first-ever Fright Night event at the First Congregational Church in Old Centre — featuring a screening of "The Nun." The creepy cinematic event in a historic church (built in 1850) will be followed by a ghost hunt at Winchendon's two historic haunted properties, the Murdock Whitney Mansion and the Isaac Morse House. Tickets for the ghost hunt are limited; check the website winchendonhistory.com for details.

So... are you ready for some fearful fun? Come on down for a treat — and a trick! §

For the Birds

Have you seen any Northern cardinals lately? Red-bellied woodpeckers? Carolina wrens? Purple finches?

If you enjoy bird-watching, you won't want to miss participating in the annual Audubon Christmas Bird Count — an event that's been going on for more than a century. During a three-week period from December 14, 2023 to January 5, 2024, tens of thousands of birders will head outside in a cooperative effort to get the best count of birds throughout the country — and beyond.

A Circle of Friends

While bird-watching is often a solitary activity enjoyed in peaceful surroundings, the Christmas Bird Count is truly a group event, with participants counting birds on a single day within defined 15-mile diameter "circles." Locally, active CBC circles are located in Athol, Westminster and the Oxbow area in Harvard. (You can find contact information for each of those circles online at audubon.maps.arcgis.com.) To participate in the CBC, you need to join an existing CBC circle by contacting the compiler (leader) in advance of the count day.

If you live within the boundaries of a CBC circle, you can stay at home and report the birds that visit your feeder on count day, as long as you have made prior arrangement with the count compiler.

New to the Christmas Bird Count world? Don't worry! Birders of all skill sets are involved in the CBC. If you're a beginning birder, the local circle's compiler will pair you with an expert initially to ensure a proper count.

As you can see, this is a serious, well-controlled study, and CBC data have been used in hundreds of analyses, peer-reviewed publications, and government reports over the decades. A total of 133 Christmas Bird Counts were conducted in New England during the 122nd CBC season last winter. The "work force" participating in this effort included 4,071 counters (not including feeder watchers) who managed to tally 213 species!

Not on Your Calendar?

If you can't make it to an active count circle — but still want to help keep track of local bird populations — you're in luck!

As an alternative, you may be interested in joining in the Great Backyard Bird Count (GBBC) organized by Audubon, the Cornell Lab of Ornithology and Birds Canada. It takes place President's Day weekend each February, and you can count the birds each day in your backyard /community and then enter the results online.

And each fall and spring bring additional watchful experiences: The Eastern Mass Hawkwatch, when spotters gather to watch the movement of raptors unfold in the seasonal migrations. In Spring 2023, Eastern Mass Hawk Watch

(EMHW) spotters counted over 2,300 migrating raptors (along with numerous local eagles, vultures, and falcons)!

And for sheer pleasure, North Central Massachusetts is a great place to observe our feathered friends—at the abundant local and state parks, conservation areas and reservations throughout the region.

Here's a tip for bird enthusiasts: The Athol Bird and Nature Club, headquartered at the Millers River Environmental Center in Athol, has an active birding division that takes local bird trips in the spring and fall. The club also has an extensive collection of mounted bird specimens, some large such as the Great Gray Owl, and others much smaller such as a Black-capped Chickadee or various warbler species. The collection aids in educating interested bird enthusiasts on bird identification and bird adaptations. You can learn more about the ABNC online at atholbirdclub.org. §

On Stage

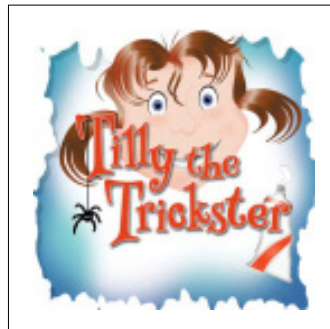

The curtain is going up on another great theater season in North Central Massachusetts!

Highlights of the fall and winter offerings in the region include a family-fun holiday favorite at Gardner's Theatre at the Mount. Based on the hit film of the same name, ELF, the Musical follows the story of Buddy, an orphaned infant who accidentally crawls into Santa's sleigh one Christmas Eve and is transported back to the North Pole, where he is adopted by Santa's elves.

Buddy grows up thinking himself to be an elf until his enormous size and less than extraordinary toy-making abilities make him realize he is human. Resolving to find his true identity, Buddy makes his way to New York City and winds up helping its cynical inhabitants discover the true meaning of Christmas. Embrace your inner ELF! The show runs the weekends of November 25 and December 2 at Mount Wachusett Community College.

But before we get to Christmas, Theatre at the Mount will dish up some sure-to-please comedy, The Odd Couple. Many in the audience will remember the TV show — and now you can see the antics live on stage!

This classic comedy opens as a group of guys assemble for cards in the apartment of divorced

Oscar Madison. And if the mess is any indication, it's no wonder that his wife left him. Late to arrive is Felix Unger, who has just been separated from his wife. Fastidious, depressed, and none too tense, Felix seems suicidal, but as the action unfolds, Oscar becomes the one with murder on his mind when the clean freak and the slob ultimately decide to room together with hilarious results as The Odd Couple is born.

Enjoy a good laugh, or two or three, when the curtain goes up on this comedy on Oct 6-7 and 13-15.

Theatre at the Mount hasn't forgotten the younger set! Kids will enjoy Tilly The Trickster on October 21. Tilly is a mischievous girl who loves nothing more than causing a little trouble. From leaking cups to toothpaste-flavored cookies, Tilly has a trick for everyone: her mom, dad, brother, classmates, and even her teacher. But when the tables are turned and her family does some scheming of its own, will Tilly decide to change her trickster ways? One show only, so get tickets soon!

And who doesn't love a musical? The classic extravaganza, The Music Man follows fast-talking traveling salesman, Harold Hill, as he cons the people of River City, Iowa, into buying instruments and uniforms for a boys' band that he vows to organize — this, despite the fact that he doesn't know a trombone from a treble clef. His plans to skip town with the money are foiled when he falls for Marian, the librarian. By turns wicked, funny, warm, romantic, and touching, The Music Man is family entertainment at its best. You can see it at The Mount in Gardner at the end of February and first weekend in March.

Want more music? StageWorks Performing Arts will present Blockbuster Hits, an original revue at the theater at St. Bernard's High School, Fitchburg, on Oct 6-8. You'll be tapping your toes with revue of hits you know from movies you love. Visit stageworksarts.org.

And be sure to check out the New Players Theatre Guild in Fitchburg — plans are afoot there to host an improv group, and stage a musical this fall. Visit the troupe on Facebook or at nptg.org to see the plans unfold!

Eagle Eyes

Our American Icon is a Comeback Story

Photos by Norman Bedard

Look up! That impressive silhouette you see against the bright blue sky just might be an American classic: a majestic Bald Eagle!

Once a rare sight in Massachusetts, bald eagles have made a remarkable comeback — thanks in large part to the Massachusetts Division of Fisheries and Wildlife and other conservation organizations.

According to MassWildlife, “from the 1940s until it was banned in 1972, the pesticide DDT caused egg mortality and further decline of the bald eagle.

“Restoration of the bald eagle in Massachusetts began in the 1980s, when MassWildlife and other partners transported young eaglets from wild nests (mostly from Canada) and raised them in cages overlooking the Quabbin Reservoir. Once the birds were ready to fledge, the cage doors were opened and the eagles released,” the state website explains. From the 1990s until 2003, releases of captive-born eagles continued, and now the impressive birds can be spotted throughout the state — including right here in North Central Massachusetts!

Pepperell photographer Norman Bedard has been watching and photographing bald eagles around his hometown for several years, and has come to recognize individual birds (and their mates) as they sail over water bodies like Townsend Harbor and the Nashua River. “There has been a real influx of eagles around this area,” Bedard says, noting that one local farmer reports having seen as many as 20 gathering over the winter.

It may surprise you to hear that winter is a great time to spot bald eagles — but MassWildlife says that winter bird-watchers have a great chance to see the impressive birds. The trick is knowing where to look. “Bald eagles usually live in coastal areas, estuaries, and larger inland waters. They need a lot of shoreline habitat with forested areas for nesting. They prefer areas where some trees project above the forest canopy for perching with an unimpeded view. Bald eagles typically choose waterbodies with a good supply of moderate- to large-sized fish,” according to the MassWildlife website.

Bedard says one of his favorite spots for eagle photography is around Townsend Harbor, right off Main Street (Route 119) in Townsend. “I’ve been able to photograph five eagles at one time, two adults and some immatures (eaglets) near the MassWildlife area on the Squannacook River,” and has photographed eagles with their babies in nests in the area, he says. Bring your binoculars, and you might be able to spot some parents soaring high above their learning-to-fly offspring, keeping an eagle eye on the youngsters.

You can stretch your legs and do a little bird-watching at the same time, following a trail in the Marion Stoddard Conservation Area in Pepperell. Prefer a different view? Drop a canoe or kayak at the launch site in the conservation area named after the local resident who has spent half a century protecting the Nashua River and area environment, and enjoy a leisurely paddle on that waterway.

The best times to spot these huge birds are evening and early morning, Bedard suggests. “They seem to be most active early in the morning, and again toward sundown.”

That is, of course, just one area in which these majestic birds have been spotted. Local residents have also enjoyed watching them, for example, around Lake Shirley in Lunenburg, Wachusett Reservoir in the Clinton/Sterling area, and in the skies over Westminster and Fitchburg.

What are those eagles doing all winter, here in chilly climes? MassWildlife notes that “courtship takes place in mid- to late winter. After courtship, a mated pair builds or adds to a large nest in December– February. The nest is built with large sticks and lined with sprigs of pine, grasses, and other soft materials. Male eagles collect the nest materials and deliver them to their mates, which are responsible for most of the actual nest construction. Once a nesting site is chosen, mated pairs usually return every year and add to the existing nest. Egg laying usually takes place from early March to early April.”

If you see a bald eagle carrying sticks to a nest this winter, MassWildlife asks that you report your observation to mass.wildlife@mass.gov, including the location and date of the observation and your contact information. These observations help MassWildlife identify new nest locations and monitor the eagle population.

Looking for something different to do this winter? Get out and look to the skies! §

FUN FACTS About Eagles

- The bald eagle is the largest nesting bird of prey in Massachusetts, with a wingspan of at least 6 feet, sometimes more than 7 feet.
- In the wild, bald eagles may live 20 years or more. The oldest wild individual on record lived 38 years.
- The eagle first appeared as an American symbol on one of the first U.S. coins, a copper piece minted in Massachusetts in 1776. The bald eagle became our national bird in 1782.

FALL - WINTER CALENDAR 2023

As this issue of The Guide goes to press, the events listed in this Calendar are scheduled. However, we recommend that you check the organizations on social media or by phone to confirm the event status, masking requirements, and any limits on attendance.

EXHIBITIONS

Through September 10 In the Eye of the Beholder: Gender through the Camera Lens at the Fitchburg Art Museum, 185 Elm St., Fitchburg. In the Eye of the Beholder delves into the Fitchburg Art Museum's permanent collection to explore how photographers have used the "gendered gaze" across the 20th and early 21st centuries. This exhibition highlights some of the museum's iconic favorites and recent acquisitions—including work from Sir Zanele Muholi, Cindy Sherman, and Yasumasa Morimura—to examine how power is embedded in the male and female gazes. In the Eye of the Beholder further explores artists who experiment with or outright reject the gender binary, questioning and complicating methods of perceiving gender and its performance.

Through October 1. Grow, Forage, Eat, a New England Society of Botanical Artists Illustrated Exhibit at the New England Botanic Garden at Tower Hill, 11 French Dr., Boylston. Come learn about the wide variety of wild and cultivated plants we eat in an illustrated exhibit featuring stunning artwork created by the New England Society of Botanical Artists (NESBA). The New England Society of Botanical Artists are a society of artist who work to promote public appreciation of the art and science of botanical art and illustration in New England. The Society educates individuals and organizations about botanical art and illustration through exhibits, lectures, workshops, and outreach programs. Through its art, NESBA emphasizes New England plant diversity and its preservation.

Through Oct. 15. CHIAOZZA, a sculpture exhibition at New England Botanic Garden at Tower Hill, 11 French Dr., Boylston. Experience CHIAOZZA, an exhibit of imaginative, colorful sculptures and wall works displayed across New England Botanic Garden. Discover the surprising creative parallels between growing plants and making art in a show inspired by the wonders of the plant world. In this lively and playful exhibition, Brooklyn-based artists Adam Frezza and Terri Chiao explore the curious forms found in grafted trees and plants. Strolling through the gardens, visitors will encounter a series of 10 large sculptures called "Gemels" ranging in height from five to ten feet each. The works themselves, painted paper pulp forms set on white pedestals, emerge along walking paths, nestled among plantings, in flower beds, under trees, and even in a fountain. As part of the exhibition, additional sculptures, wall works, and a short film created by the artists are on view inside the Milton Gallery.

FEBRUARY

1 Thursday, 6-8 pm. Gardenmania at Leominster City Hall, 25 West St., Leominster. We know it's winter, but now is the perfect time to start thinking about your spring garden. Chat with local businesses and organizations, purchase items for your garden, and learn more about resources available in the area.

2 Thursday, 8 am. Groundhog Day with Featherstone at Monument Square, Main Street, Leominster. Forget Puxatawny Phil! Leominster has its own prognosticator: Featherstone the Pink Flamingo! Join Leominster's mayor and a hardy gathering as Featherstone makes his prediction about the remaining days of winter.

10 Saturday, 10 am-2 pm. Ski Trail Open House at the Finnish Center at Saima Park, 67 Scott Rd., Fitchburg. Saima Park's trails will be open to the public for skiing and snowshoeing, or hiking. Wish for Snow! Free admission. Donations welcome. A limited supply of equipment is available to borrow. Visit saima-park.org. Repeats on Feb. 17.

18-24 Sunday-Saturday, all day. Leominster Restaurant Week. Visit participating businesses throughout the City of Leominster, and enjoy discounted prices. See the city's Facebook page for updates on participating restaurants.

20 Tuesday, 5:30 pm. Indoor Drive-in Movie Night at Leominster City Hall, 25 West St., Leominster. Remember the fun of going to the drive-in theater with your family? Give the youngsters a taste of those good old days, as they create their own cardboard cars and watch a family flick in a comfy indoor setting. Check the city's Facebook page for details.

23 Friday, 10 am-2 pm. Once Upon A Time in Leominster City Hall, 25 West St., Leominster. Bring your little princes and princesses (costumes are welcome, but not required) to City Hall for a day of royal fun, including a hot cocoa bar, cookie decorating, story time and photos. Make a tiara, crown or magic wand —enjoy a flight into fantasy. Visit Leominster's Facebook page for updates.

23-24 Friday & Saturday, 7:30 pm. The Music Man at Theatre at the Mount, 444 Green St., Gardner. The Music Man follows fast-talking traveling salesman, Harold Hill, as he cons the people of River City, Iowa, into buying instruments and uniforms for a boys' band that he vows to organize — this, despite the fact that he doesn't know a trombone from a treble clef. Repeats March 1-3. Visit mwcc.edu/tam for tickets.

24 Saturday, 8-10 am. Pannukakku Breakfast at the Finnish Center at Saima Park, 67 Scott Rd., Fitchburg. Finnish oven pancake, bacon, sausage, fruit, Finnish coffee bread, juice, coffee/tea/cocoa. Loaves of Finnish coffee bread for sale. Vendors of arts, crafts, and bee products. See the Friends of Saima Park on Facebook.

25 Sunday, 12-5 pm. Cabin Fever Collector Show in Templeton. The Narragansett Historical Society's annual event showcases the collections of local residents. From pocket watches to Pez dispensers, Betty Boop figures to Tonka trucks, you'll get a fascinating peek into the world of collecting. Location to be announced; visit Templeton Museum on Facebook for updates.

HOT TICKETS

There's no shortage of fun events in North Central Massachusetts — but we've highlighted a few of our faves to enjoy while you're visiting the region. Get out your calendar, and pencil in these special celebrations.

Forging Ahead

It will be a hot time in Fitchburg on September 30, when Fitchburg's Blacksmith Art & Renaissance Festival celebrates its 20th anniversary. The Festival is geared toward promoting the craft of blacksmithing and the arts, with a live Forge-In competition in which blacksmiths create preset projects using traditional fire and anvil methods.

But there's more to this festival than smoking hot forges, ringing hammers, and creative designs. Imagine a full day of live music, arts and crafts vendors — and renaissance-themed events! Visitors are invited to wear period costume to bolster the Renaissance atmosphere. The Knights of Lord Talbot, a nonprofit education-based reenactment group, will present unscripted armored combat demos and a historical encampment dating from the end of the Hundred Years War.

Need more enticement to attend? How about belly dancing, whip demonstrations, and vendors selling everything from swords to jewelry! Demonstrations at the event in Fitchburg's Riverfront Park on Boulder Drive, are free to watch. It's fun for the whole family to enjoy. ★

Wholly Cannoli!

Looking for a special treat? How about an evening of snacking devoted entirely to cannoli — those mouth-watering, decadent tubular pastries packed with a luscious ricotta filling incorporating additions ranging from chocolate chips to nuts and candied fruits. And that's just the beginning!

Dozens of vendors will be on hand, tempting visitors to Leominster's Cannoli Festival with these fabulous Italian treats, along with coffee, music and lots of camaraderie. Think that if you've seen one cannoli, you've seen them all? Think again! Consider these variations from last year's event: apple crisp, blueberry cobbler, or peanut butter cup!

If you love cannoli, you've gotta put this one on your calendar: Monday, October 9, 5 to 9 pm on Main Street, Leominster. And be sure to bring your appetite! ★

Sale-ing Away

Don't you just love a bargain? Of course you do! And what better way to find a great deal or a special treasure than at a yard sale.

Now, multiply that by a dozen, a score, a hundred and you've painted a picture of that popular local event, the city- or town-wide yard sale. To be sure, summer seems to be the most popular time for yard sales, especially ones encompassing an entire municipality.

But if you're visiting North Central Massachusetts in the fall, you can still enjoy this time-honored local tradition!

Here are three hot tips for you this fall: September 9 in Templeton.

This annual town-wide event benefits the Narragansett school music program, as participating sellers pay a fee to gain a spot on the map. There are usually a host of sales right at the high school parking lot on Baldwinville Road, too, so be sure to swing by.

September 16 in Leominster. Stop by City Hall at 25 West St., Leominster to grab a map, and follow the trail as you hunt for treasures!

September 16 and 17 in Fitchburg. It's a good bet there will be over 100 sales listed on the city's interactive map! Visit fitchburgyardsale.com to try it out! ★

Recycled Chic

Creativity will be on parade — or, rather, on stage — when Winchendon throws its Back to School Bash on September 2 at Winchendon Community Park on Ingleside Road.

Local teens have been invited to wear their talent on their sleeves ... and legs... all over!.. by designing clothing from recycled materials. Here's the key: "materials" can not include fabric! Paper, cardboard, plastic, tinfoil, duct tape — who knows what recycled items might find their way into this clothing and onto the stage?

The Recycled Fashion Show is a competition, and the winner will go home with a $100 gift card to use for back to school shopping! How creative will the teens get? Visit the Back to School Bash to see — and to enjoy a Nerf gun war, music, candy, ice cream and more. It's time to say good-bye to summer and hello to the new school year! Visit Winchendon Community Park on Facebook for more information on this fun-filled event. ★

It's Time to Hit the Slopes!

hen Old Man Winter makes his annual tour of Johnny Appleseed Country, all eyes turn to the region's stately landmark: Wachusett Mountain, where bright trails of sparkling snow streak through the dark shades of evergreen foliage.

Local fields and backyards may still be clear, but when the mercury drops, the staff at Wachusett Mountain Ski Area swings into action, churning out miles and miles of the stuff that skiers' dreams are made of. It's snow season on the mountain, right here in Johnny's backyard!

This national-class ski area has a rabidly loyal ski and snowboarding following from Boston, Worcester, and across southern New England — folks who recognize that you don't have to spend half your weekend driving to get to some great winter fun. Picture it: Three high-speed chairlifts (among a total of eight lifts), 27 trails on 110 acres of varied terrain, a state-of-the-art snowmaking system and snow grooming for a consistently excellent customer experience — along with a ski and snowboard school. Oh, and don't forget the expansive base lodge boasting three restaurants and bars, and a full-service ski shop.

Those amenities, along with a prime location accessible to big urban population centers and affordable lift tickets, make Wachusett one of the busiest ski resorts in the country by volume. Yet it's easy to find uncrowded slopes on early mornings, weekdays and at night.

"The mountain," as it's affectionately known locally, puts the fun in winter for an astoundingly diverse crowd that ranges from novices and families to teenagers performing acrobatic tricks in the terrain park as well as adult night league racers who speed down the Challenger race trail clad in colorful skintight race suits.

And yes, Wachusett really is a mountain, not a hill.

At 2,006 feet, it juts handsomely on the Princeton-Westminster line over the valleys between the Pioneer Valley and Boston, with lovely views of Wachusett Lake and New Hampshire's mighty Mount Monadnock to the north.

Independently owned and operated by the Crowley family — who also own Polar Beverages, the nation's largest independent bottling company — Wachusett is also the largest seasonal employer in the region.

A Complete Experience

The ski area has more than 100 trained instructors recognizable in their red ski school jackets. Inexpensive learn-to-ski and ride programs cater to first-timers and experienced riders seeking to hone their skills. Beginner packages come with gear rentals and even lift passes for those who love sliding on snow right away and want to try on their own. The Polar Kids program is for 4-8-year-olds, who then graduate to the Arctic Aces for ages 9-12. Customizable group, semi-private, private and group lessons are available.

Beyond the ski and snowboard school, Wachusett provides more specialized programs for school groups, disabled skiers, aspiring adult racers, and youth racers and ski and snowboard freestylers.

For that youthful freestyle community — one of the most vibrant and fun segments of the snow sports industry — Wachusett's terrain park complex is a magnet for ski and snowboarders who push the limits of on-snow creativity in a designated area set aside for them equipped with massive jumps and funky features.

With roots that date to the early 1960s with a couple of T-bar lifts, the modern history of Wachusett began in 1968 when the late Ralph Crowley and an associate won the bidding for the state lease to operate the ski area.

Today, Wachusett Mountain is a modern, professionally run ski resort that promises to stay under family control for many years into the future with the arrival of a third generation of Crowley managers on the scene and a lot more fun to come. §

Short Stops

Of course you love exploring the Great Outdoors... and when you've had enough fresh air, or the weather isn't right for a foray into the forest, there are still lots of great things to enjoy in North Central Massachusetts! Here are a few spots, both indoors and out, to explore — and you can find even more places to visit in the “Members” section at the back of this Guide!

Finding Woodland Fairies and Gnomes

A true gem of the region, Fruitlands Museum in Harvard is always worth a visit, with its diverse collection of art and material culture on 210 acres of land, stunning views, and miles of walking trails.

And how about this for a special family treat? Visit the Fruitlands Fairy Forest on September 2 and 3 for a fantastical woodland adventure.

While living at Fruitlands, 10-year-old Louisa May Alcott wrote in her diary that she “had a lovely time in the woods with Anna and Lizzie. We were fairies, and made gowns and paper wings. I ‘fied’ the highest of all.”

Don your wings, grab your crowns, and come play in the Fruitlands woods as Louisa and her sisters once played. Register online to receive a digital DIY Fruitlands Fairy Forest Activity Kit (including map, fairy wand craft tutorial, story time reading, and more) prior to your visit. Registration includes access to Digital Activity Kit and the museum grounds.

Rev Those Engines!

Don't you just love the sleek lines of classic cars? Do you dream about putt-putting along in an antique vehicle, imagining what it was like a century ago, when horse-drawn surries gave way to horseless carriages? Can you remember the days when car-hops brought your shakes and burgers, clipping the metal trays to the door of your oh, so cool convertible?

Well, you can take a trip down memory lane — or a dream trip to the turn of the last century — just about every week here in Johnny Appleseed Country this fall.

Swing by Kimball Farm in Lancaster, or the Polish American Citizens' Club (PACC) in Gardner, on a Friday night, or Hannaford supermarket parking lot in Athol on a Wednesday evening to chat with car enthusiasts.

And be sure to head to the Templeton Common on September 24 to see to see vintage and antique vehicles and machinery — and enjoy a free concert — at the Narragansett Historical Society's annual Motorpalooza!

Take a Country Tour

This isn't really a “short stop” — it's a whole series of stops you can make as you follow the Country Roads trail! From November 10 through December 10, shops in Winchendon, Templeton, Hubbardston, Gardner, Barre, Petersham, and Phillipston welcome visitors with a Holiday Tour. Tempt your taste buds with local cheeses, meats, beers, and produce; find unique gifts and handcrafts; explore old-timey country shops.

Here's a tip: Pick up a stamp card at any of the shops, complete the tour, and get entered into a drawing for some great prizes! It's a leisurely way to do your holiday shopping, enjoy a country cruise, and explore these locally-owned shops that preserve our New England traditions.

Ring in the New Year!

Are you ready to say goodbye to 2023, and looking forward to 2024? Take a ride to downtown Orange on December 31, where you can party in the street with lots of live entertainment, do a bit of shopping, watch a parade from Town Hall to Veterans Memorial Park, and — if Mother Nature cooperates — view some spectacular ice sculptures! Want more? How about a fireworks display to bid farewell to the old year?

Starry Starry Night is a local tradition — and a great way to ring out the old, and ring in the new!

La bodega de mis sueños (The bodega of my dreams) On view now

En esta primera instalación de arte público en una de las paredes exteriores del museo, el artista y educador cubanoamericano Gabriel Sosa considera la historia de los inmigrantes hispanohablantes en la región central de Massachusetts, la cultura visual contemporánea en el centro de Fitchburg y las complejidades de “el sueño americano”.

In this inaugural installation of public art on the museum's façade, Cuban-American artist and educator Gabriel Sosa considers the stories of Spanish-speaking residents in Central Massachusetts, contemporary visual culture in downtown Fitchburg, and the complexities of the American Dream.
